With all the rain we're having it looks like the San Jacinto River is at least 5-feet higher over the last few days & much of the cap would be underwater. Let's postpone Monday's cap inspection until the river subsides - I will re-schedule in the future when more of the cap can be seen.

Folks,

I will be going to the San Jacinto Site on Monday, 6/1/15, at 1:00 pm for a visual inspection of the cap over the waste pits; please let me know if you or others would be interested in joining me. There will be a brief safety meeting prior to entering the site.
